

Sunrise's Solar Power Petition

Posted by Big Gav on July 2, 2008 - 8:47am in The Oil Drum: Australia/New Zealand

Topic: Policy/Politics

Tags: australia, solar power [list all tags]

Channel 7's "Sunrise" program is repeating their campaign from a few years ago to get the government to continue funding solar panels for everyone. You can sign the petition here.

Back in 2006, Sunrise proved that people power does work. When the Government was planning to ditch the rebate on solar panels, Sunrise viewers spoke up. Well since then, Australia has taken a backward step.

The new Government now means tests the rebate. If this plan stays, the rebate that makes solar panels affordable will only be available to households earning less than 100-thousand dollars a year.

Now, we're calling on the Government to scrap the means test. This is not a baby bonus - this is a valid incentive for ALL Australians to do something about global warming.

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, CALL ON THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT TO SCRAP THE MEANS TEST ON THE SOLAR PANEL REBATE.

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Share Alike 3.0 United States License.